It is undoubtedly well known, that Messrs N. Bacon and Wm Plumb, 2d, have levied an attachment against the undersigned prayed out of the Circuit Court of the United States, for a preter ded infringement on their Hanging Lamp; and have cautioned the public against the use of my Lamp. Mr Bacon (for I do not think Esq P mmb advised the course) thought fit, in my absence from the State, to enter and examine my Factory, and sweep off my entire property, by the attachment tory, and sweep off my entire property, by the attachment-taking a course, by threatening and otherwise, intended to intimidate me and my friends. Is my case not unlike making and vending the same Lamp, or a similar one, without a Patent? Does my conduct require such rash dealing?—especially as Mr B. could have appealed from the Commissioner to a Board of Arbitrators, and prevented the issuing of my patent, if he could have shown any infringement.

I do not propose, neither would it be proper, in this place, to discuss the merits of my claim. I only show that I have, to discuss the merits of my claim. I only show that I have acted, at least, under a color of law and right, which I do in self defence, and for the purpose of convincing the public, that there is no danger of continuing the patronage which they have heretofore so liberally extended to me. THE most safe, effectual and economical remedy for diseases of the Human Constitution, that has ever been dis-ses of the Human Constitution, that has ever been discovered.

These Pills are composed entirely of materials extracted from Medical Plants, and are warranted not to contain one particle of mercury, or any mineral substance. Dr Kingley, the inventor of this valuable medicine, from his knowledge of the Human System, derived from a long and extensive practice, has arrived to the conclusion, that the great and primary cause of most diseases is a derangement in the functions of the liver; or, in other words, an increased or diminished secretion of the Bile.

So well is his understood, that it is common for persons to say when they feel unwell, that they are bilious, meaning that they have too much bile in the stomach. On the other hand, when the flow of bile is diminished, the process of diges ion is imperfectly performed, the patient becomes weak and emaciated, because nourishment contained in the food taken into the stomach is not properly extracted, and the food is ejected in a crude state. Dr Kingley is confident that the famous Hygeian Theory, so called, that "impurity of the blood is the cause of all diseases," is a great absurdity. Every one who reflects upon the subject a moment, will perceive that impurity of the blood is a secondary, not a primary complaint—the effect and not the cause of disease. When the functions of the liver are deranged, and the flow of bile increased, it is often taken up by the absorbent vessels and contried into the circulation, and becomes mingled with the blood as in Jaundice, when the patient shows it in his countenance. Now this impurity of the blood is caused by an increased flow of the liver, and remedy it you must correct the secretion of the liver, and remedy it you must correct the secretion of the liver, and remedy it you must correct the secretion of the liver, and remedy it you must correct the secretion of the liver, and remedy it you must correct the secretion of the liver, and remedy it you must correct the secretion of the liver, and remedicines that can be prepare

Dr Kingley flatters himself that his long experimenting with Dr Kingley flatters himself that his long experimenting with vegetable medicines has enabled him to discover the true and only substitute answering all the purposes of mercurials, without any of their attendant evils. One great quality of his Family Pills is that they have the alterative principle combined with this cathartic or operative quality, so that they not only cleanse the stomach and bowels by purging, but they regulate the liver, change the morbid secretions, a reighen the digestive organs, purify the blood, invigorate the circulation, and give tone and energy to the nervous system.

They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and convey

lation, and give tone and energy to the nervous system
They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and convey almost immediate conviction of their utility from the first dose.
They can be taken with safety by persons of any age, and the feeble, the infirm, the nervous, the delicate, are strengthened by their operation, because they clear the system of bad humor-, quiet nervous irritabilities and restles ness, from what.

ever source, and invariably produce sound sleep.

The Family Pills are an invariable remedy for the aundice sick and nervous headache, dyspepsia, costiveness, sickness of the stomach, heartburn, all bilious complaints, levers of all kinds, and if taken at the commencement will invariably check their progress, and save the patient from a protracted at gerous sickness. They are invaluable in nervous and hypo-condrieal affections, loss of appetite, and all complaints to which temales alone are subject. They operate as a mild and speedy purge, and are a sate and certain remedy for worms in

Since I have introduced my Universal Family Pills to the public I have introduced my Universal Family Pills to the public I have received numerous certificates of their superior efficacy in curing diseases; also many letters from respectable physicians who have used them in their practice with the best

I might publish a small volume of certificates, but consider it unnecessary, as the medicine will recommend itse who will make trial of it.

POETRY.

LINES ON LEAVING EUROPE. -By N. P. Willis.

Bright flag at yonder tapering mast!
Fling out your field of azure blue;
Let star and stripe be westward cast,
And point as Freedom's eagle flew!
Strain home! oh lithe and quivering spars!
Point home my country's flag of stars!

The wind blows fair ! The vessel feels The pressure of the rising breeze; And swiftest of a thousand keels, And swiftest of a thousand seets,
She leaps to the careering seas!
Oh, fair fair cloud of snowy sail,
In whose white breast I seem to lie,
How of, when blew this costern gale,
I've seen your semblance in the sky,
And long'd, with breaking heart, to flee
On such white pinions o'er the sea!

Adeiu, oh lands of fame and eld!

I turn to watch our foamy track.

And thoughts with which I first beheld
You clouded line, come hurrying back;
My lips are dry with vague desire
My cheek once more is hot with joy— My pulse my brain, my soul on fire!

Oh, what has changed that traveller-boy!

As leaves the ship this dying foam,

His visions fade behind—his weary heart speeds home!

Adieu, oh soft and southern shore,
Where dwell the stars long miss d in heaven!—
Those forms of beauty seen no more, Those forms of beauty seen no more,
Yet once to Art's rapt vision given!
Oh, still th' enamoured sun delays,
And pries through fount and crumbling fane,
To win to his adoring gaze
Those children of the sky again!
Irradiate beauty, such as never
That light on other earth hath shone,
Has grade this land her home forever:

Has made this land her home forever; And could I live for this alone — Were not my birthright brigh er far
Than such voluptuous slaves can be—Held not the West one giorious star

New-born and blazing for the free-Soar'd not to heaven ur engle yet -Rome, with her Helot sons, should teach me to forget!

Adeiu, oh fatherland! I see Adeiu, oh father and: I see
Your white cliffs on th' ho izon's rim,
And though to freer skies I flee,
My heart swells, and my eyes are dim! My heart swells, and my eyes are dim!

As knows the dove the task you give her,
When loosed upon a foreign shore—

As spreads the rain-drop in the river
In which it may have flowed before—
To England, over vale and mountain,
My fancy flew from climes more fair—
My blood, that knew its parent fountain,
Ray warm and fast in England's air. My blood, that knew its parent fountait Ran warm and fast in England's air,

My mother! in thy prayer to night

There come new words and warmer tears!
On long, long darkness breaks the light—
Comes home the loved, the lost for years! Sleep safe oh wave-worn mariner! Fear not to night, or storm or sea! The ear of heaven bend-low to her!

He comes to shore who sails with me!

The wind-tost spider needs no token

How stands the tree when lightnings blaze—

And by a thread from heaven unbroken,

I know my mother lives and prays! Dear mother! when our lips can speak -

When first our tears will let us see—
When I can gaze upon thy cheek,
And thou, with thy dear eyes, on me—
'Twill be a pastime little sed
To trace the weight Time's heavy fingers
Upon each other's forms have had— Upon each other's forms have had-For all may flee, so feeling lingers!
But there's a change, beloved mother!
To stir far deeper thoughts of thine;
I come—but with me comes another To share the heart once on , mine!

Thou, on whose thoughts, when sad and lonely,
One star arose in memory's heaven—
Thou, who hast watch'd one treasure only—
Watered one flower with tears at even—
Room in thy heart! The hearth she left
Is darken'd to lend light to ours!
There are bright flowers of care hereft. There are bright flowers of care bereft,
And hearts that languish more than flowers—
She was their light—their very air—
Room, mother! in thy heart! place for her in thy prayer!

CORPORATIONS .- NO. III.

"They are generally designed" (business corporations) to aid the man of small means and are always granted on the principle of promoting the public good." "In addition to the objection that corporations are mo-nopolies, it is urged that the stockholders are liable only for a limited amount. The same objection may be urged against limited copartnerships, which exist in this and someother states by a general law, but, practically, this limited liability has not been found detrimental. Fewer losses, both relative and actual, have been made from the failure of corporations than in trading with individuals."

The principles laid down in the above extracts are, as has been already shown in a previous number, predicated upon the ground that business corporations are established to advance the public good, and controllable at all times by the legislative will. We have endeavored to show that, although they may have originated in a desire to promote the public good, and have been adopted by our ancestors for that purpose, still, that they were in error, and, that the powers given or granted in acts of incorporation, go directly to defeat the object for which they were originally

The whole history of corporations in this country and in all countries,—the abuses which have grown out of them -appear to us to prove not only this fact, but that they are wrong in principle. Charters are sought ostensibly for the the public good, but really for private emolument; and that they may be so sought and so obtained is, to our mind, a strong argument against them.

One would suppose that the great increase of corporations for business purposes, for the last few years, would open the eyes of people, and lead them to look, not so much for apologies for their abuses, as for their real natural effects and influences

In a government like ours, where the Constitution and the laws recognize no hereditary aristocracy, the ambitious and grasping will seek to g in similar advantages to those derived from an aristocracy by other means, and hence, property or wealth is the means used for the purpose of accomplishing or obtaining the same end. And from this principle we venture to assert that nineteen twentieths of all the acts for incorporation, granted by the legislature have originated. We do not like to be invidious, but we cannot forego the opportunity of calling the attention of the writer of the pamphlet, to some of these corporations. Such, for instance, to begin near at home, as the Maleable Cast Iron Company. In lia Rubber Companies, and others too numerous to mention, among the class of "business corpora-tions," to say nothing of "Cantons" and a host of others created for similar purposes. We think we could point to some "persons of small means and limited knowledge" who would be very glad to have "A Citizen of Boston" prove that they have been beneficial to persons of small means and limited knowledge. It is a notorious fact that persons of small means and lumited knowledge have suffered by Corporations most egregriously, while the knowing ones have pocketed their ill gotten gains—laughed at the gullibility of the flats, and prepared themselves for some new legalized scheme of fraud. Perhaps a "Citizen of Boston" could call to his mind some transactions of this sort. We would respectfully call his attention to the almost conumerable number of corporations of every sort and kind in this vicinity. Our legislators have very wisely forbidden the practice of gambling and the trade in lottery tickets, while they have, by acts of incorporation, it appears to us, opened a flood-gate through which is flowing a deep turbid stream, of moral desolation

Whether corporations are monopolies or not, we leave for others to decide. It makes but very little difference to us, by what name they are called, whether monopolies not, so long as they have the power to monopolize. And that they have this power to a greater extent, than the majority of individuals, no one will deny. It is said they de-prive no one of their rights. If they do not deprive individuals of their rights, they must assuredly clothe individuals in their corporate capacity, with privileges and powers which other individuals do not enjoy. What security or certainty have those individuals, who are not incorporated with certain powers and privileges, that they shall receive through the legislature an act for themselves? It is not at all strange, that "fewer losses have been made by the failure of corporations, than by individuals." this is no proof that the community have any the less suffered. This, so far it goes, is an argument against corporations, inasmuch as it shows that corporations would be selected, instead of individuals, for the transaction of business, and consequently monopolize that branch of business in which they might be engaged. We would ask, if these corporations are not generally connected with another class of corporations, BANKS, and if the facilities which they receive from that quarter, are not greater than those received by individuals? That it is as easy to ascertain the s anding, in a pecuniary point of view, of a corporation, as of individuals, we deny; and if there is greater security in the transaction of business in regard to losses, it is owing, not to their moral honesty, if we may so speak, but from their powers, and privileges secured to them by special acts of legislation, in uner violation of every principle of equality, or of individual rights. But corporations are not monopolies. We have already remarked that they have the power of monopolizing. Let us suppose a case. A company is formed, an act of incorporation is granted, for the purpose of carrying on the business of building houses in this city; would it be likely in. any way to interfere with the business and rights of the carpenters, the masons, and other mechanics in this line? Suppose, further, that the corporation shall have power to to sell, and to hold real estate; would this be likely to effect tenants?* Suppose, further, that the corporation should have power, to buy and sell mer handise, would this be likely to affect the price of such articles as they might be disposed to traffic in-might not the price of coal, of wood, of flour, of pork, of butter, &c be affected, and yet, corporations are not monopolies. Now we would respectfully ask-wherein is the difference, between giving one corporation power to manufacture, to build, to buy and to seil, to trade and to traffic in anything and everything, it may please to manufacture, to build, to trade and to traffic in, with an immense capital, (compared with that of individual capital,) or of having one or more corporations clothed with powers and privileges for every branch which has been named? Do they any the less deprive those individuals who are not, and cannot be interested in them, of the fruits of their own labor and industry ? Are they any the less monopolies, or any the less dangerous, because they are, or may be extended, to an indefinite degree, in every branch of industry? But, corporations are "beneficial to persons of small means." Who says so? Do persons of small means? Oh, no: the capitalists, who, kind souls, are always looking out for the interest of persons of small means. It they really wish to give the laborer the bencht to be derived from corp rations, we will propose one of a different kind, but equally just in its operations and influences. Suppose the laborers, mechanics and others, get an act of incorporation for the purpose of regulating the price and advancing the interests of labor, with a capital sufficient to accomplish the object for which the association is formed. How will this suit the capitalists! Not at all. "Down with your combinations! Down with your 'Trades Union." And this is all right. So it is; but, we say carry out the principle.

* The corporation called the "Fifty Associates," of this * The corporation called the "Fifty Associates," of this city, of a similar character to the one described, as it regards real estate, it report be true, is already producing some effects, which tensus will be likely to feel if they have not already. THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1837.

Reform in the House of Lords .- From the last number of the Edinburgh Review, we have epitomised some interesting remarks on Reform in the House of Lords. which we think may be agreeable to the majority of our readers. The Reviewer says, it is a mistake to imagine that, unlike the other branches of the Legislature, the House of Lords has always remained the same in character and spirit: or that it has exercised at all times, the same power and influence over the executive government. In the course of ages, it has undergone as many metamorphoses as some of the insect tribes in the progress of a single year. Under the Plantagenets, though a powerful antagonist to the throne, it was a devouring caterpillar. During the iron dominion of the Tudors, it struck into torpidity and became a chrysalis. It has been since, a gaudy insect with some propensity to sting. The following are some of the projects that have been suggested, to correct the defects of the Upper House, without impairing its efficiency as a valuable and useful part of the government.

It has been thought that the increasing number of the Peerage, might render the House of Lords a cumbrous and unmanageable assembly for the transaction of business (like the Massachusetts House of Representatives.) To remedy this inconvenience, it has been proposed to have representative peers for England, in the same manner as for Ireland, and Scotland; but if these representatives were chosen by a majority of the whole body, it would exclude, as experience has shewn, all Peers from the House, who at the time of election belonged to the minority.

It has been suggested that in imitation of the old barouial constitution, no one should be permitted to sit and vote in the House of Lorls, who was not possessed of landed property to a certain extent. But many a Peer and many a Commoner is the nominal owner of a large estate, so burdened with debts and incumbrances, as to afford little income to the proprietor. Others have proposed that the Upper House, like the American Senate, should be appointed by election from a list of candidates, presented by the Crown. But besides many grave objections that might be made to this plan, it is obvious, that such elections if popular, would give to Britain a rival House of Commons; and if committed to the more opulent members of the community, that they would end in a worse edition of the House of Lords.

The Constitution of the Roman Senate, as explained by Middleton, might supply hints for another plan, that would gradually reduce the number, and improve the character of the House of Lords. The Senate of Rome, like the English House of Lords, was composed partly of the descendants of the ancient nobility, and partly of new men, who had raised themselves to eminence by their services. But no one, whavever might be his birth or merits, could be admitted within its walls, till he had been raised to some curule office, by the free suffrages of his countrymen. Might not a similar principle, with modifications adapted to the English constitution, be introduced into the House of Lords? Might it not be expedient to enact, that no peer claiming by hereditary descent, should sit and vote in that assembly, who had not been twice elected into the House of Commons, and sat in that house for a certain

The ordeal of two popular elections, and the obligation of attending the discussions of a popular assembly, for a certain period, would tend to correct those aristocratical feelings and prejudices which the younger part of the nobility are apt to imbibe. That this change would reduce the numbers of the House of Lords cannot be doubted .-None would find admission through the house of Commons, Those who were disqualified by nature from discharging tuting them intellectual Siamese twins—so that Chang the engine, which, being thus without control and having the duty of legislators would be utterly excluded; and the House would be redeemed from the scandal of seeing proxies given for Peers who are hardly fit to manage their private affairs, and far less capable of judging what is fit and expedient for the Public.

An equivocal compliment .- A Boston correspondent of the Greenfield Gazette, in decribing the members of the House of Representatives, after speaking of Mr Blake, says-"A little to the right of him sits Minot Thayer, of Braintree, a veteran Legislator truly. For more than a quarter of a century has his voice been heard on this floor. He speaks often-but not long. He is a busy stirring man-and probably as honest as most of his colleagues."

The same correspondent also talks about Mr Emerson's whiskers, Mr Rockwell's dignity (!) and speaks of Mr R. C. Winthrop as, "the son of the late Lieut, Governor Winthrop, of Boston-whose delicious wines have often been tasted by former members of the Legislature "

A new Scheme - A fellow went to Nashua the other day, says the Telegraph, and exhibited the scheme of a lottery, which he said was to draw in a day or two in Lowell-the prizes consisting of valuable furniture. He succeeded in disposing of a good number of tickets at one dollar apiece, and while the holders were on the look out for prizes, the Lowell papers announced that the same dollar. precious villian had played the same game there, and decamped with the proceeds.

Whig Creed .- Shoot a man if he moves his elbow!

Negative Items .- Never strut very proudly in the streets in the winter season, since in that case, if you happen to stumble on the ice, you endanger the back part of your cranium in the region of self-esteem.

Never allow yourself to be satirical in general converation upon the female sex, as this circumstance will induce vast numbers of them to make love to you, that they may appear to be excepted in your satirical remarks.

Never quote Wordsworth, Coleridge, &c. &c., with raptures in conversation, unless you are willing to be taken for a boarding-school miss, in breeches.

Never receive an opinion, on the authority of your neighbor, though he be a great and learned man; since he himself undoubtedly received it on the authority of another person, who in his turn, received it on the authority of another, -so that, in the end, perhaps, you receive your opinion on the authority of one who is tenfold more of a fool than yourself!

Never, especially if you have a very exalted opinion of yourself, indulge the habit of drawing satirical portraits, in conversation, since it is more than likely that all your hearers will be laughing in their sleeve at your description, as an exact likeness of yourself.

Never, madam, allow yourself to speak very confidently and extravagantly of the high moral character of a certain gentleman of your acquaintance, in the presence of the male sex, especially if he be a man of great professions, since it is very probable that your hearers will be amusing themselves with your encomiums upon one of the greatest rakes of their whole number.

Never continue your conversation with an individual after he begins, in reply, frequently to repeat the words. yes, ah, indeed, &c,, occasionally looking round at the door, since it is very evident, that he is watching for a gap in your discourse, through which he can conveniently make his escape from your presence.

Never, if you happen to be guilty of the common folly of writing poetry, and have occasion to speak of your practice, never hang your head, and appear modest; as such manners would imply that you believed there was some merit in being able to do what hundreds of fools, as well as yourself, are in the habit of doing almost daily.

Never, my dear madam, utter the word genteel, if you can possibly substitute another word in its stead, since the frequent repetition of it might lead people to suppose that you valued vourself on that ridiculous folly.

Never, sir, indulge habitually in the use of profane language; otherwise, when you wish to annihilate an insolent puppy with a volley of superlatives, you find that the constant use of them has subdued their force, and they fall upon his head like so many pith-balls.

For the Boston Morning Post. Mr Greene-I perceive at the close of the leading paragraph of this morning's paper an allusion to the Editor of the Atlas as "a learned dramatic poet." This of course refers to the Bride of Genoa. Why people will persist in making Mr Epes Sargent the editor of the Atlas cannot imagine. Mr Epes Sargent, the author of the Bride of Genoa, has no connexion whatever with the Atlas-except that he is brother to Mr John O. Sargent, one of the associate Editors of that paper. Now it needs no very deep logic to prove that the individual named John O. Sargent is not the individual named Epes Sargent, and therefore that John O. Sargent, who is Editor of the Atlas, is not Epes Sargent, who is the dramatic

When you mean to blow up the junior Editor of the Atlas sky-high, you mean to blow up Mr John O. The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Report of the doings of the Nahant Bank, in committe of the whole. Competition .- We have seen the prospectus of the Seekonk Branch Railroad," proposed by Hon Tristram Burges, and others, and shortly to be submitted to the public for subscription to the stock of the proposed road. charter for the above purpose, was obtained by the above named gentlemen, from our legislature, a year since, authorising and empowering them, and their successors "to lay out, locate, build, and use, a Railroad, from Old Wharf, so called, on Lyon Farm and Rocky Point, on the same farm, to some convenient point near the southern termination of the Boston and Providence Railroad, in Massachusetts, being a distance of about two thousand feet, and with their said road, to enter said Boston and Providence Railroad, at that point, and to use the same, paying therefor such toll as the legislature may from time to time prescribe," &c. The extent of the contemplated branch, be. ing but about two thousand feet, it will be seen the expense of building the road, cars, and necessary buildings, will be trifling. We understand, the object of the enterprising proprietors of this plan, to be, to prevent imposition in prices, &c, of the Transportation Line, so called; in fact to introduce fair and honorable competition, by which the public will be greatly benefitted. We also understand the principal object, of the application for subscription to the stock of the Branch Line, to be an interest in our travelling community, in correcting an evil long compained of, by a direct interest in the People's Line, as the new Branch is to be denominated. The shares are put at the small sum of fifty dollars, thus enabling all classes of our citizens to become subscribers. It is well known, that an enterprising citizen of New York, Capt. Vanderbelt, has engaged to place upon the Sound, a new Steamer, now being built by him, said by judges, to promise to excel in point of speed, accommodations, &c. any steamer upon our waters—and that a second is to be chartered, to run alternately with the new steamer, which will land and receive passengers, at the proposed southern location of the new Branch, on the Providence River. When this is accomplished, and we understand the whole may be in operation early in the season, the People's Line will offer to our citizens a cheap and delightful, and what is more a safe conveyance to and from New York.

The expense of the above project is trifling, the accounmodation to the public immense, and cannot fail to be a profitable affair to those concerned.

Accident on the Lowell Rail Road .- Yesterday afternoon, the locomotive Boston with a tender was despatched from the depot of the Lowell Railroad in the city to clear the track of ice for the 3 o'clock passenger train for Lowell. As this engine had not returned at 3 o'clock, it was supposed that it had gone up to the turn-out in Woburn, and the passenger train started. When it reached the curve near the McLean Asylum, three miles from the city, about 10 minutes past 2, it encountered the Boston returning. PROSPECTUS

F THE SEEKONK BRANCH RAILROAD, Exhibited by Tristam Burges, President of the Company, John W. Richmond, a Director of the Company.

At the last session of the General Court, holden at 80s. ton, a charter was granted to Timothy P. Ide, Tristam Burges, and John W Richmond, their associates and success sors, incorporating them, under the name and style of the Seekonk Branch Railroad Company; and they were thereby anthroised, and empowered, to lay out, locate, build, and use a Railroad, from Old Wharf, so called on Lyon Farm, and Rocky Point, on the same Farm, to some convenient point near the southern termination of the Boston and Providence Railroad, in Massachusetts, being a distance of about two thousand feet; and with their said road to enter said Boston djoining towns, to unite in the celebration in this town .and Providence Railroad, at that point, and to use the same, paving therefor, such toll as the Legislature may from time to time prescribe, and complying with the rules and regulation made by the Directors thereof, by virtue of the 5th section of their charter; and also paying the expenses of making and keeping in repair such turn-outs or switches, as may be ne-cessary to enter said Boston and Providence Railroad in such manner as will not obstruct the use thereof. This charter was obtained with much labor, at considerable cost, and Tickets for sale at HILLIARD, GRAY & CO'S. and at COL was obtained with much labor, at considerable cost, and against a most determined opposition, made, as it is believed by the New York and Providence Transportation Company, though in the name of the said Boston and Providence Railroad Corporation. The principal purpose of applying for this charter, was to establish a fair competition among the carriers on the great line of travel and transportation, between the on the great line of travel and transportation, between Boston and New York on the maritime route; and to do this by establishing a Depot on the Massachusetts side of the waters of Narragauset Bay, so that Steamboats might run between that Depot and New York, and Locomotives, Cars, and Car rages to be moved between the same Depot and Boston, and especially, at that time, to aid the operations of the Steam boats, the President and the Benjamin Franklin, then engaged boats, the President and the Benjamin Frankin, then engaged in that competition, and excluded from the Depot at India Point, in Providence, so far as they could be excluded therefrom, by the orders and arrangements of the Transportation Company afore aid. Those Boats were owned principally in New York, and it had been agreed in behalf of the owners thereof, by their Agent in Providence, and the said Tristam Surges, and John W. Richmond, before the said charter was obtained, hat those owners would furnish the whole capital and take the whole Stock necessary to place and keep in operation Locomotvies, Cars, and Carriages on said Branch, and on the Boston Road as aforesaid; and also one half of the Stock and Capital to build said Branch Road and Depot. The Presand Capital to build said braid and Capital to build said boats in New York had also agreed with said Burges, to use the Depot and Wharf thereof for their said boats. But not with standing all these agreements and arrangements, those Boats were, on the 22d day of June last, sold by the said President and Directors of said Boat's Company, to the Agents of said Transportation Company, and the competition aforesaid, thereby destroyed. The subscription to the Eranch Railroad Stock then in progress in New York, was, by this sale stoped, and the papers subscribed, by boat owners before that time, have been detained by the Secretary of said Roat's Company, and by order of the President thereof, the delivery of them refused to the said Branch Railroad Company. of them refused to the sail Branch Railroad Company, though demanded by the President thereof, by order of the Directors; nor, as it is believed, can they be obtained with aut a suit in chancery, which as at present advised, they do not choose to institute. For inasmuch as their Road, Depot and whole line of travel, will, when finished and in ope tion, be in Massachusetts, they will look to Boston for

The Billow (reported yesterday) went ashore on the Tortugas on the night of Feb 3—captain, crew and passengers arrived at Key West on the 8th The whole of the materials saved were sold on the 9th for $762, on which a salvage of $576.62 was awarded. The Compacy has been organised, the charter accepted and Buildings will not cost over $6,000; and it may be safely affirmed that the whole cost of the Road and Depot when finished and fit for use will not exceed these two sums. The remainder of the Capital will be required for vehicles such as aforesaid, to carry persons and property between the Deas aforesaid, to carry persons and property between the bepot and Boston.

If any gentlemen are willing to aid in bringing a fair competition into operation on the great line of travel between
New York and Boston on the maritime route, and thereby correct any thing erroneous in the procedure of any of the carriers on that line; they may be assured that the Sekonk Branch Railroad now offers a medium, and perhaps the only successful medium, to institute such a competition. It is fully believed that there will be brought out on the waters of the Bay and Sound this season, a number of Steamboats sufficient to establish a daily competition line between Providence and New York. If the Seckonk Branch goes into operation the whole line of land travel, will be placed under the eration the whole line of land travel, will be placed under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts; and enable the General Court to regulate, by legal provisions, every carrier, and every versions, every carrier, and every versions, moved on any part of the way, from the waters of Natiragansett Bay to the Capital of the Commonwealth. So so n as there shall be two lines of Boats, and two lines of the travel. Monday the 18th inst. be prepared for the reception of company.

The location of the House, for beauty and variety of prospect and purity of air, is not surpassed by any in this vicinity, it commands an ent review of the Harbor, City and surrounding country, and though but within a few minutes ride or walk of the centre of the City, possesses all the retirement of an inland village.

The internal arrangements of the House are calculated to be of the first order, and every exertion will be used to give satisfaction to its inmates. The House contains about two hundred rooms, has spacious piazzas, a fine promenade on the top, is built in the most thorough manner, and no expense has been spared to render it a safe, convenient and agreeable place of residence. The west wing is particularly appropriated for Ladies and Gentlemen with their families.

There is connected with the Manue spacious and covenient Dathing Rooms. There is also attached to the establishment a large Stable, capable of accommodating 150 horses, and the facility of several omnibusses which will arrive and leave every half hour, and be in readiness to convey passengers to and from the different Railroad depots, Steamboats, and busings and from the different Railroad depots, Steamboats, and busings and covered the City passengers to the City passenge

"Medicine without principles is an humble Art, and a degrading occupation."

Dr Herbert having arrived in America for the purpose of taking a tour through it, and seeing in every place he visited so many invalids laboring under afferent complaints, and so many who have ruined their constitutions by applying to advertised nostrums, respectfully informs the citizens that he has returned to the city of Boston and intends remaining for the purpose of rendering his services to the afflicted.

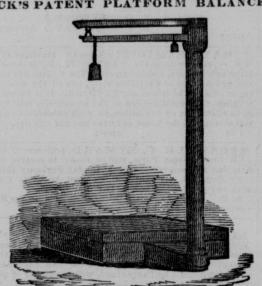

Dr H. may be consulted at his spartments, No 274 Washington street, II rear Avon Place, II from 10 in the morning till 3 in the evening. The Doctor wishes every person who may need his advice, to make timely application.

The advantages the Dr has possessed of acquiring a knowledge of different diseases, have been far greater than generally falls to the lot of any individual. From his peculiar mode of treatment, his professional celebrity has been established;—and since his arrival in America, gratitude arising from a thousand hearts is and has been a sweet enjoyment.

To administer to a mind diseased, pluck from the Memory

"To administer to a mind diseased, pluck from the Memory arooted Sorrow,
"Raze out the written troubles of the Brain, and with some sweet oblivious Antidote,
"Cleanse the foul Bosom of that perilous stuff which weighs upon the Heart."

Dr. LOVEMAN'S Balm of Gilead is universally acknowledged to be peculiarly efficacious in all inward wastings, loss of appetite, indigestion, depression of spirits, trembling or shaking of the bands or limbs, shortness of breath, and consumptive habits. It thins the blood, eases the most violent pain in the head and stomach, and promotes gentle perspiration. By the Medical Faculty this medicine is much admired being pleasant to the taste and smell, gently astringing the fibres of the stomach, and giving that proper tensity which a good digestion requires.

bres of the stomach, and giving that proper tensity which a good digestion requires.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead is recommended to the weak, the relaxed, and debilitated, as an agreeable and speedy restorative; and considered as a cordial, is essential to the comfort of ladies of fashion, being a preventive against cold, when taken before going out to partie s, halls, routs or the play. It will enliven the spirits and invigorate the mind and body, and if taken after fatigue, it will with a few hours sleep, take away all languor consequent on broken rest, and give relief from every unpleasant sensation.

It is a most valuable remedy for such diseases as are attended with the following symptoms, namely—a great straitness of the breast, with difficulty of breathing—violent palpitations of the heart, sudden flasces of heat in various parts of the body—at other times a sense of cold, as it water was poured on them—flying pains in the arms and limbs, back and belly, resembling those occasioned by the gravel—the pulse very variable, sometimes uncommonly slow, at other times very quick—yawning, the hiccough, frequent sighing, and a sense of suffication, as from a ball or tump in the throat—alternate fits of crying and convulsive laughing—the sleep uncomposed and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the patient of the patient of the property language and seldom refreshing, and the patient of the patien sense of suffication, as from a ball or lump in the throat—alternate fits of crying and convulsive laughing—the sleep unsound, and seldom refreshing, and the patient often troubled with horrid dreams. Much has been said by interested individuals against Medicines that are advertised, but there is a very important observation to be made respecting Dr I oveman's Balm of Gilead, that unless its operation was gentles afe and efficacious, it could not have obtained the unexampled demand it has acquired.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

"Without Health we can enjoy no Fortune;

"Without Health we can enjoy no Fortune; Honors, Riches, and all other advontages are useless."

Honors, Riches, and all other advontages are useless."

Hippocrates.

This Cordial has been uncommonly successful with young people who have the appearance and air of old age, who are pale, effeminate, benumbed, stupid, and even imbecile; whose bodies are become bent, whose legs are no longer able to carry them, who have an utter distaste for every thing, and are totally incapacitated. Where the stomach is frequently disordered, the body is weakened; paleness, bodily decay and emaciation succeed, and the eyes sink into the head. The virtues of Dr Loveman's Balm of Gileadere demonstrated, in oradicating the worst and most dangerous symptoms of nervous debility, and nothing has tended so much to establish the fame of this medicine, as its certain success in those complaints which strike their roots so deep in the constitution, and are so fatal to the happiness of mankind.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead has risen in repute with every triaf of its efficacy. Some, perhaps, unacquainted with its virtues, not having perused the Guide to Heshth, may be induced to ask what is the Balm of Gilead good for? What complaint doth it cure?—To answer this it will be necessary to "Hold the Mirror up to Nature."

Let those who are afflicted in the following manner reflect on the cause that produced such havoe upon the "wholesome appetites and powers of life:"—disordered stomach, dry appetites and powers of life:"—disordered stomach, dry cough, weakness in the voice hoarseness, shortness of breath upon the least exercise, and relaxation of the whole system. Those afflicted with paleness, languor of the eyes, weakness of sight or memory, should take time to consider Linnaus's advice, that "youth is the important period for forming a robust constitution," and that "nothing is to be dreaded so much as premature excess." The foundation of a happy old age is a good constitution in youth; temperance and moderation at that age are passports to happy grey hairs.

For such as have violated these precepts, then, this healing beam is suitable—tion of Nervous and Consumptive, are those for which it is peculiarly adapted.

In offering this medicine to the public, I can say with confidence that they will find great benefit by using it in all diseases recommend d, as I am tally acquainted with the medical qualities, as they have been discovered by myself, and are extracted from vegetables, and I can truly say, there is no earthly danger in using the medicine by any person, no matter how they may be afflicted. This medicine has been used by large number of persons, and have been cured of diseases of a long standing, when all other medicines have failed.

DTO THE PUBLIC.—Anacreon, the prince of accept poets, the lover and the eulogist of the ladies, never forgot, in his odes, to mentiod of the teeth of pearl.

Ovid never for one moment lost sight of the "balmy breath" of his ladies, and his earnest recommendation to both sexes was ever to "keep your teeth elean, and your breath sweet." The ancients had the means of doing so. Anacreon's beautist were as noted for their flowing zones and their eyes of fire, as for their teeth of pearl and their breath of balm.

Ovid, who has taught us how to love and be loved, laid more stress upon the teeth and breath, than any other point—and verily these precepts are worthy of our practice. How many matches have been broken off—how many amost tes separated—how much misery caused by the single fault of a bad breath.

I once heard a lady sing, and most divinely. Her voice was clear, full and melodious, her tones superb, but the air beyond endurance.

who does not wish to have this defect remedied? What lady does not wish to be bessed with the "teeth of pearl and the balmy breath," so noted by the divine Anacreon? What gentleman does not wish to be in every wish agreemble to the ladies?
